Dear business partners and customers of DINSE,

After intensive cooperation since the beginning of the year, characterised by mutual trust and appreciation, the managing partner of DINSE GmbH, Dr Christian Diekmann, has decided to leave the company.

The reason for this is a difference of opinion among the shareholders regarding the strategic direction and the changes necessary to achieve it. 'I have come to know and appreciate DINSE over the past few months and wish the company and its employees all the best,' says Dr Diekmann.

The advisory board and the majority shareholders of the company regret Dr Diekmann's decision and emphasise their appreciation for his commitment and the improvements he has achieved. Former managing director Torsten Lischke will take over the management of the company with immediate effect.

Yours sincerely

Company Management of DINSE GmbH
